ANNOUNCEMENT

FLAG SALUTE

COUNTY EXECUTIVE'S REPORT

Satpal Sidhu, County Executive stated it is his 41st wedding anniversary.

He reported to the Council about the following:

- A recent listening series with Mayor Seth Fleetwood in which was discussed creating some kind of racial equity commission and some kind of civilian oversight of law enforcement and justice
- An overview of positive COVID-19 cases in Whatcom County and how our county compares to others of the same size
- A new allotment to the Health Department of $4.5 million of CARES Act money and the intention to request an extension of the deadline for using the funds
- Two Community Block Grants received by the County (a $250,000 micro enterprise grant and a $400,000 grant directed toward housing issues) and a $450,000 grant which the County will receive in the next few days
- A ferry for Point Roberts
- A recent social marketing campaign for the management of COVID-19

Tyler Schroeder, Executive's Office, updated the Councilmembers on the biennial budget including where the County is with revenue and expenditures, and how they will be moving forward for the development of the budget.

He and Sidhu answered whether the projected 7% reduction to the budget will be for 2021 and 2022, how much the County is forecasting to draw down its reserves, what assumption the Administration is building the 2022 budget around, whether projections are just for the General Fund, whether there have been updates sent out for July and August, how they are figuring the percent of revenue decrease and what that will be for 2021, whether the budget includes the possibility that the County may have to take on COVID-19 related expenses if CARES Act dollars do not continue, how the County will address the increased need for housing over and above the current deficit, and having the model of revenue rate assumptions published somewhere so that it can be referenced as things change and new calculations can be made.
