9. Please describe your occupation (or former occupation if retired), qualifications, professional and/or community activities, and education

Throughout my career working for both public and private entities, I've build the diverse skill set and perspectives needed to tackle climate-related issues. During my time at ASU working on the Ten Across initiative, we engaged thought leaders, researchers and decision makers in developing climate-resilient strategies that spanned the southern United States. Coupled with my decades of experience working in the energy sector and engaged in public policy development, I'm well qualified to engage in the myriad topics tied to building inclusive, resilient strategies for Whatcom County.

10. Please describe why you're interested in serving on this board or commission

I started my career working in the public sector and believe it is important for us all to actively use our skills and experiences in support of community and civil society. The combined pressures of population growth and climate change threaten the very beauty and bounty that makes Whatcom County so unique. Its imperative that we build thoughtful strategies to conserve our water, land and sea resources in the face of these threats. This in turn will better enable our communities to build the necessary resiliency in the face of these challenges.
