EXHIBIT A STATEMENT OF WORK

I. Background

Starting in 2012, the health and well-being of young children has been a declared priority in the community and has been centered in the last two cycles of our Community Health Improvement Plan. A broad level of interest among elected officials, health care, social service agencies, philanthropies and businesses has been generated and there is a recognition of the importance of investing in children right from the start. The City of Bellingham and Council members have certainly been a part of this loose coalition and, as you know, there is growing momentum to put a children's levy on the ballot this year.

As part of this momentum, in 2016, the Whatcom County Health Board declared the health and well-being of young children a particular focus of interest and has maintained that focus in collaboration with the Public Health Advisory Board. There were two significant reports related to children and families that were developed and delivered to Council. In 2019, the Health Protection for Immigrant Families in Whatcom County detailed the health risks to immigrant families and found that immigrant families, both documented and undocumented, are not accessing needed services and supports due to fear, isolation and language barriers and that resources for mental health services and housing were particularly inadequate. Several recommendations were made and one specifically called out the need to develop culturally and linguistically accessible navigation services for immigrant families. A second report was delivered to Council in January of 2020. The Child and Family Action Plan built on some of the recommendations made in the Health Protection for Immigrant Families report and carried through priorities identified in the Community Health Assessment including the need to improve access for families with young children to high quality early learning and care, housing, and mental health for families with young children. It also made strong recommendations to develop infrastructure needed to elevate the well-being of all children and families, and to increase public funding for services and supports directed at young children and families including the pursuit of new funding mechanisms, such as a levy.

II. Scope of Work

The Whatcom County Health Department has been charged to implement the Child and Family Action Plan alongside the Child and Family Well-being Task Force. Our activities in 2022 will focus on ensuring families receive the services and supports they need when, where and how they want them, with a particular focus on improving access for immigrant families. Specific activities supported with this funding will include:

1. Development of a local implementation plan for increasing access to supports and services for families with young children using the Help Me Grow framework (which is also a state priority).
2. Expansion of the existing Single Entry Access to Services \(SEAS\) for families to include increasing methods of navigation service delivery (text and email), increased language access as well as expansion of services that the SEAS will help navigate families to, including mental health services and home visiting. By the beginning of 2023, SEAS will be ready to act as the Coordinated Access Point for families with children prenatal to age five to access all services and supports as defined by the Help Me Grow model.
3. An analysis of the feasibility of enhancing community and school-based family resources in order to provide service navigation in locations that are accessible for diverse community members.
