Currently I am a full time student at WCC earning my general AA. I enjoy showing up to community events on campus. Most recently I helped my professor set-up some art pieces for a student display happening in the learning commons. And while I'm not getting a degree that focuses on criminal justice or community activities, and education

government, I have taken a lot of classes in that genre. Currently I'm enrolled in a community relations class with an A, and that I highly enjoy. I also enjoy helping make Whatcom County a better place on a daily bases, be it in helping out in classrooms or organizing clean-up parties with my friends. On a more personal level, I live in a Mercy Housing complex and enjoy making connections with my neighbors here, specifically through the community gatherings.

8. Please describe why you're interested in serving on this Advisory Group.

I was born and raised in Bellingham and have seen it to go through a lot of transition in the short 18 years of my life. I always felt supported in a lot of ways, especially seeing how much LGBTQ+ and women's rights have been advocated for in Whatcom County, two groups I'm proud to be a part of. As I got older I started to see the cracks in our foundation, especially since moving into subsidized housing. Lots of my neighbors and chosen family have been through the legal system, and I've seen from first-hand experience how hard it can be to recover from that. Lots of these individuals need better mental health support, financial support, or just better reintegration support in general. Down the road I hope to get my Master's to become a medical examiner, and something that I hope to do when I get that title is to make myself a pillar of my community. To better understand vulnerable populations and help find preventative ways to keep them out of harm's way and off the table. I think this position would not only help me continue to grow my skill set in learning to be a better advocate and member of my community, but would also allow me to provide a unique perspective and suggestions to our county's justice system. This opportunity was first presented to me by my professor Dr. Michael McHenry at Whatcom Community College and when I heard of it I thought it sounded like such a great way to become more involved in my county's government, and arguably more importantly, help my community in a more hands-on way that I thought I asen't possible at my age.

Outside of academics, I enjoy reading, writing, and creating art. I'm passionate about giving back to my community and I'm always looking for meaningful ways to contribute and make a positive impact.

WORK / VOLUNTEER EXPERIENCE

Generation's ELC

2024-Present

Volunteer

In 2024, I began volunteering with Generations, where I support teachers and staff in a variety of ways. This experience has taught me how to anticipate needs, proactively offer help, and step into a range of tasks with a positive attitude. Whether it's folding laundry, tidying up shared spaces, or doing arts and crafts, I approach every job with care and a focus on completing it efficiently and thoroughly.

Silver Beach Elementary

April 2025-Present

Volunteer

Earlier this year, I reached out to a former teacher and offered to help out in the classroom. Since then, I've taken on a variety of small tasks that require creative problem-solving, patience, and clear communication. This opportunity has helped me grow more adaptable and confident, especially when applying my strengths in a new and unfamiliar environment.

eBay & Depop

February 2025-Present

Seller

Recently, I began selling my odd, unused items through websites like eBay and Depop. This has allowed me to apply and strengthen a variety of skills, including quick and clear communication with customers, time management, organized shipping, adapting to different online models, and writing engaging product descriptions. Successfully managing my online shop(s) has led friends and family to ask for my help selling their own items, an experience that has expanded both my social and professional networks.
